The Stewart Glapat Corporation was recognized on Friday April 26th by the Eastern Ohio Development Alliance (EODA) for “Excellence in Technology” at their Quarterly Meeting in Walnut Creek, Ohio. The Stewart Glapat Corporation is a fourth generation, family-owned and operated business that has been designing and manufacturing specialized equipment in Zanesville, OH for 79 years. The company has made it a practice to work with Zane State College and Mid-East Career and Technology Center, both located in Zanesville, Ohio, to recruit employees.

The Excellence in Technology Award recognizes excellence for entrepreneurs promoting technology including employment growth or job creation, innovation programs involving employees and community projects, new technological expansion, community service encouragement and activities which have resulted in statewide, national or international attention for the region. Regional Representatives served as the selection committee. To be eligible, the nominees were required must be located in the 16 county EODA region.

Executive Director Matt Abbott emphasized, "It is always exciting and rewarding to see a family owned and operated business receive special recognition. The Stewart Glapat Corporation has not only been providing solid employment opportunities for the area for 80 years, they have embraced our community and continue to make it a better place."

The Eastern Ohio Development Alliance is an independent, not-for-profit association of business, industry, organizations, government and individuals dedicated to advocating public/private sector partnerships which stimulate economic development and the overall enhancement of regional quality of life. EODA developed a series of regional awards to recognize excellence in a given pursuit including business startup or growth, employment growth or job creation, innovative programs involving employees and community projects, new product or program development resulting in expansion and community service encouragement.
